MOOD:  contemplative

Today is World AIDS Day_. (<https://www.livejournal.com/away?to=http%3A//www.worldaidsday.org/>)

(And also to cuddly bunnies and spouses, who make it hard to get to work on time. Did you know that bunnies are crepuscular? This means they are active at dusk and dawn. And, as near as I can tell, all damned night. Conveniently, they sleep during the day, when nobody is around to entertain them, so they don't get bored or lonely!

Did you know that bunnies can climb?

Into beds?

And that they do flips when they are happy?)

Thank you

This is Patricia Andreoli, wife of Daphne Worth, who you all knew as Trollcatz. Daphne died

...And there goes the weekend

But hey, we got a day and a half of this one! And I got to sleep in for two whole mornings. Too bad

A friend in college had a bunny who would chew on power cords.
He also liked to scream in apparent distress. Perhaps he was tormented by phantom ferrets?

THAT would be unsettling.

THIS bunny just grinds his teeth when he's happy.

Do you have a new bunny? Or are you simply bunny-sitting?

Spouse procured the bunny a while back. He's spotty! His name is Tiger!

...everybunny needs somebunny.

Awww! I have had some very good bunnies and some not so good ones. Sounds like you got a good one!

T. knew his mom and dad.

There was an interlude of... inappropriate male behavior, but the source of the urge has been removed, so to speak, and now he's back to being a lovely little source of potential electrocution!

Yes, I knew bunnies are crepuscular. Cats, deer, skunks, ferrets and mice are also in my list of critters that are most active at dusk and dawn. Or during the night when there are lights on. Or out during bright moonlight.

I didn't know that bunnies could climb. Into beds. Or do flips. Now I do.

Pat the Bunny.

Want to see my photos of baby bunnies? My daughter's bare feet are in a few of the pix because one bunny baby decided to hide behind them.
